

TESTIMONIAL FOR THE JET WING

I have known Dan Griffin for about three years. As a matter of fact, the boat you see when he is demonstrating the Jet Wing used to be mine. Dan and I met about five years ago at a boat launch where I was having an awful time getting my boat on the trailer. Dan offered to help me but being a stubborn fisherman I declined his offer. After minutes of frustration and failure, I gave in and went back to Dan for help. With his help the boat was on the trailer in no time. Two years later when poor health forced me to sell the boat. I advertised it in the local newspaper. I didn't expect what happened next. My doorbell rang and there stood Dan. After figuring out that we had met a few years previously I showed the boat to Dan and he bought it. Dan took me fishing, in my old boat, on many occasions and we became very good friends. There are advantages to a great friendship. We both grew to know each other's principles and character.

Dan started the Jet Wing project with a dream. He knew boats with jet out-drives are difficult to maneuver at slow speed. Trolling, retrieving the boat to the trailer and just plain sight seeing at slow speed are a nightmare. The pilot cannot relax. He/she is constantly turning the steering wheel from lock to lock just to stay on course. Fishing, admiring the beauty nature provides, or placing the boat on a trailer makes one want to give up the whole sport. Over the months Dan experimented with different designs, materials, fastening systems, manufacturing processes, etc. He eventually came up with the Jet Wing. He tested it over and over tweaking the design as he progressed. He allowed me to test it on my old boat and IT WORKED!!!. I found myself actually enjoying being on the water. Dan put the Jet Wing into production with his own finances and the voluntary efforts of his family. They worked hours, days and weeks to get the Jet Wing on the market.

Our friendship has taught me a lot about Dan. He is the hardest working man I know. He will not give up if he believes he is doing things right. He is an honest man who would never misrepresent himself or the product he manufactures. He sets goals for himself and works tirelessly to achieve them. You can be certain that any dealings a customer has with Dan will be honest and professional. If you don't like his product he will be the first one to offer the customer his/her money back. If you are having difficulty installing the Jet Wing, Dan will probably show up at your house to install it for you. He is a straight-up guy and you will not be disappointed with the Jet Wing. I highly recommend it. It will make your boating and fishing activities fun again.

Note: I do not have any financial or other material interest in Jet Wing LLC. I prepared this testimonial because I truly believe it will make using a boat powered by a Jet outboard so much more enjoyable and safer for you and your family.
